

September 30, 1943.

Congressman William L. Dawson,
House of Representatives,
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Dawson:

I wrote you sometime ago to Chicago, and am wondering if the letter reached you. The fact that I had not received an acknowledgment from you has caused me to wonder. I, of course, had not expected you to do anything about the matter so soon, but I would appreciate knowing you received the letter.

I repeat again, I will be glad to come to Washington at any time to talk to you.

Very truly yours,

EM:CCJ